

Mating Season

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at <http://archiveofourown.org/works/50044819>.

|                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Rating:          | Mature                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Archive Warning: | No Archive Warnings Apply                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Categories:      | M/M , Multi                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Fandoms:         | Hannibal (TV) , Charlie Countryman (2013) , Blood and Chocolate (2007)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Relationships:   | Will Graham/Hannibal Lecter , Aiden (Blood and Chocolate)/Nigel (Charlie Countryman) , Aiden (Blood and Chocolate)/Hannibal Lecter , Will Graham/Nigel (Charlie Countryman)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Characters:      | Will Graham , Hannibal Lecter , Nigel (Charlie Countryman) , Aiden (Blood and Chocolate)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Additional Tags: | Omegaverse , Alpha/Beta/Omega Dynamics , Alpha/Omega , AU - Hannibal and Nigel are brothers , Open Relationships , Smoking , Blood , Biting , Sexual Tension , Mild Sexual Content , Implied Sexual Content , Alpha Hannibal , Alpha Nigel , Omega Will , Omega Aiden , Predator/Prey Dynamics , Established Hannigram , Established ChocolateDogs , Horny Hannigram Autumn Adventures |
| Language:        | English                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Series:          | Part 5 of ira's horny hannigram autumn adventures                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| Stats:           | Published: 2023-09-12 Words: 979 Chapters: 1/1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

Mating Season

by ira\_agni

Summary

“You do realise they fuckin’ banned hunting for mates, right?”

Nigel pulls a cigarette out of the pack, sticks it between his lips and lights it, looking into the depths of the yellow and orange coloured autumn forest that stretches out before them.

Hannibal simply smiles.

“For those who are unmated. Yes.”

-

A Horny Hannigram Autumn Adventures bingo prompt fill for 'hunting/mating season'.

“You do realise they fuckin’ banned hunting for mates, right?”

Nigel pulls a cigarette out of the pack, sticks it between his lips and lights it, looking into the depths of the yellow and orange coloured autumn forest that stretches out before them.

Hannibal simply smiles.

“For those who are unmated. Yes.”

Hannibal accepts the cigarette Nigel offers to him, taking a drag, frowning at the insult to his taste buds.

“So we are solely doing this for fucking sport, then?”

“We are doing this, because it’s what they asked us to do, Nigel. You would know if you had paid attention to your mate and his needs, of course.”

Nigel scoffs at Hannibal’s words.

“We could have just fucking stayed at home, you know? No need for all this shit... I already did all the fucking courting, now I gotta run after him all over again...”

“You are welcome to leave, Nigel. I certainly won’t complain if you choose to remove yourself from the competition.”

Nigel curses under his breath, pushing his hair back.

He knows damn well that the last thing he can afford to do now is just give up, surrendering the omega he mated to the alpha beside him.

“You fuckin’ wish, Hannibal...”

Hannibal ignores him, taking a deep breath of the fresh, clean air, the smell of rain and damp earth still all around them.

“I think they have gone far enough by now.”

Nigel raises his head, trying to pick up on the omegas’ scents, yet he, too, can no longer sense them.

He takes a final, big lungful of smoke before he buries the cigarette bud beneath his shoe, much to the disapproval of Hannibal beside him.

“Wanna make this a competition, then?” Nigel grins at Hannibal, cocky and mischievous, “Whoever gets to find one of the boys first gets to fuck him, mate or not...”

Hannibal raises his eyebrows at Nigel, and he can’t help but smile at how stupidly naive his suggestion sounds.

Hannibal would easily be able to court Aiden, yet Nigel would probably walk away with several broken bones if he dared to cross Will's boundaries all too bluntly.

Then again, perhaps a bit of red, a bit of colour to match the scenery around them, would suit his brother quite well.

Hannibal extends his hand to Nigel, his grip firm and confident as they shake hands.

"Suit yourself, then."

Will can feel his heart pumping in his chest, blood rushing through his veins, lungs burning with the cold autumn air among the trees as he runs, runs as fast as his legs will carry him, a breathless smile on his lips as he feels himself reconnect to his most primal instincts.

The legs of his pants stick to his skin with the icy water of the river he crossed, yet he can't feel the cold in his feet and legs, only the rush of adrenaline in his veins and the heat in his gut.

Eventually, finally, Will slows down, panting heavily as he looks around, finding he has gone deeper into the woods than he ever has before during their seasons of hunting.

As much effort as he has taken in covering his tracks, he knows Hannibal will find him with ease.

No matter how much effort Will has put into it, never has his mate ever left him alone for too long, instinct, a fine nose and a keen knowledge of Will's strategies making it all too easy for Hannibal to find him.

Will keeps going for a while, enjoying the soft rustling of leaves beneath his feet as he takes a moment to appreciate his surroundings, yet the snap of a twig nearby quickly redirects his attention.

Aiden lets out a deep breath of relief as his back hits the forest floor, no pain or unease present in his mind as he allows Hannibal's frame to envelop his own, his expensive wool coat soft and warm beneath his hands as he closes his arms around him.

"I never thought you'd come for me..." Aiden murmurs softly, willingly baring his neck as Hannibal bows his head, lips hovering over Aiden's scent glands, his pulse, teasing the contact the young omega so desperately craves.

"And did you want me to? Hunt you? Make you my prey...?"

The way Hannibal lowers his voice sends shivers down Aiden's spine, and he arches his back, eager for more contact, more attention, more friction.

"You know I love Nigel..."

Hannibal hums in approval, enjoying the faint scents of chocolate and ink beneath those of Aiden's heat and arousal.

"This is not about love."

"No..." Aiden agrees quietly, his whole body aching for the alpha above him as Hannibal grinds his hips harder against his own, spreading his legs more for him as he feels Hannibal's lips finally pressed firmly against his skin.

Nigel growls, deep and aggressive, tasting blood on his lip where Will bit him, finding himself pinned beneath the omega who keeps him down with ease, sitting on his hips.

"You didn't seriously think I'd make this easy for you, did you?" Will mocks, leaning back just slightly as Nigel sits up, meeting the fury and longing in his eyes with patient restraint.

At least as restrained as Will still finds himself capable of being with the alpha's hands coming to firmly cup his ass cheeks, pulling him closer, capturing him in another touch of lips that is more biting than kissing.

"Say it, then, gorgeous... Say you don't want me, and I'll back the fuck off..."

Will buries his hands in Nigel's hair, pulling hard, sinking his teeth into the alpha's exposed neck in a gesture so defiant and provocative it blinds Nigel with rage and possessiveness, the overwhelming urge to claim and fuck and put Will back in his place.

"Try to leave, Nigel... I dare you..."

Please drop by the Archive and comment to let the creator know if you enjoyed their work!